				List updated 3-4-11

There will be a training in Winston-Salem on attachment and foster care on June 16 (deadline to register is June 9). More information can be found http://www.cphs.org/pdf/FridayEmails/2011_04_01/RAD.pdf

The collaborative stated a need and called for a list of state-wide resources of those with proper training and approved therapists. NC child treatment program has a list of those who have been trained and walked through a complete case with a qualified trainer.

*There was a conversation about a letter of support from collaborative for more training which will be an ongoing discussion and added to the agenda of future collaborative meetings. Value Options

If you need something, be sure to state your specific need to Ms. Potter and she would be happy to support you:

Former DMHDDSAS medical director Mike Lancaster, MD provided an update that day on the integration of mental health and primary care within Community Care of North Carolina (CCNC).

mlancaster@n3cn.org

Today, there are 1.4 million Medicaid enrollees and this number will increase by 700,000 when reform is complete. How will we provide treatment to all the patients seeking treatment when everyone will have access to mental health in 2014 through healthcare reform? A salient health concern for the disproportionate number of children seeking mental and behavioral health treatment is substance abuse.

In general, psychiatrists are typically initiators of psychotropic medications—primary care physicians only re-prescribe medications, raising questions of when it is time to get a re-evaluation. Primary care often does not have enough information to calibrate these medications.

Dr. Lancaster cited motivational interviewing as a necessary part of the clinical paradigm shift.

There are 14 community care networks around the state, which, unfortunately, do not overlap with the 23 LMEs. There are over 4,000 primary care physicians in the network who are required to follow quality and initiative guidelines. This results in better outcomes than most HMOs. The network also employs care managers to help practices navigate complex cases.

Mr. Lancaster stated the need for the network to save $90million (with progress seen by October) or funding can be cut from hospitals and providers by up to 2%.

1/3 of the most expensive patients have serious mental health diagnoses, yet have no mental health services. This raises the question if treating their mental health would lead to better overall health in these patients. 83% of the most expensive patients have no case management. How do we connect them to this system? Motivational interviewing engages consumer in a way to meet people where they are. Most people are resistant about what they are prescribed and told by a doctor, which leads to further problems.

The network provides all day training for motivational interviewing with a follow up every month with technical assistance and training/ coaching.

The network psychiatrist serves as a liaison to collaborate working relationships with local management entities (LMEs) and is a resource for primary care physicians.

He also noted that most doctors want help with diagnosing with depression.
